Elizabeth, Michael and I worked on our communication with this project and no one overlapped work! Again, we complement eahc other's strenghts...Elizabeth and Michael are patiently helping me to strengthen my coding skills and be a better user of git version control. We are all struggling with balancing work and projects and making sure that we have understood and at least watched the videos. The debugging and testing of code takes the longest. Git is probably the next focus for the group so that we do not rely on physically naming scripts to manage versions :)

As always, feedback from my peers is quick and helpful, supportive. Heath and Chilcoat are very good programmers and put in time to complete projects.
